THE MIDDLE YEARS TRANSITION PROGRAM

Ensuring incoming 6th graders and their parents have a successful transition into Middle School

The transition to middle school is marked by several changes in educational expectations and practices. Once students reach middle school, they must interact with more peers, more teachers, and with intensified expectations for both performance and individual responsibility. All of this comes at a time when they are also experiencing a host of changes associated with the transition from childhood to adolescence. The goal of The Middle Years Transition Program is to provide child and parent with strategies for success, as they transition into the "Middle School Years".
